THE WAR NEWS.

We ought soon to have important news from the vicinity of Vicksburg. Rebel dispatches from Jackson, Miss., of the 16th, say that the Union forces are in possession of Now west bank of the Mississippi. We had a story a week ago, also from Rebel sources, that possession of this place. From our own coron the new ditch is going on energetically, not in the hope of turning the entire river but to get water enough to float gunboats and transports through. Should this be successful, it is surmised that there will be an expedition up the Big Black River directly into the rear of Vicksburg, to destroy the bridge on the Vicksburg and Jackson Railroad, and thus cut the Rebel garrison's communication with the interior. The Rebel depatches, printed elsewhere in this sheet, say that the Union troops at Lake Providence have moved to Vicksburg and Grenada, and they believe that a heavy movement is in progress,

The report that our troops had taken possession of Gordonsville is not yet confirmed. Rumors to that effect were current in Washington, but were not traceable to official cources. We have Rebel authority for saying that as long ago as Tuesday there was a fight burg, where 6,000 of Stoneman's Union cavalry, supported by infantry, were trying to cross the Rappahannock. The Rebel writer says rumor prevailed at Gordonsville yesterday that

By the last accounts the Rykoffs were fighting hard in the Government of Kovno. A Cracow correspondent of The London Times says that it is a fact beyond doubt that several Russian officers have joined the insurgents, and that if a list were drawn up of those Russian officers who have openly taken part with the Poles, and those who have attacked their own men to keep them from plueder, then the lat would already be a long one. In the Kingdom of Poland, Cleszowki and Czachowski are commanding the insurgent forces in the government of Radem, which borders upon Gallicia, and which was the seat of the operations of Langiewicz. A telegram of April 4 seems to indicate (the proper names of the telegraphic dispatches are, however, very untrustworthy) that the capital of this Government, with its public treasury, has fallen into the hands of the insurgents. In the northern part of the Kingdom of Poland, in the government of Plock, Padlewski commands the insurgents. In the government of Lublin, Lewandowski and Lelewel share the direction of a numerous band. Lelewel seems to have recenty suffered a defeat, for a telegram of April 3 asserts, that he, with the remainder of the insurgents under his command-in all about 300 men-had withdrawn to the interior of Poland. It was in the government of Lublin that Mielencki gained two brilliant victories on the 22d and 23d, when the Russians are said to have lost altogether about 400 mea. for the fact that Mielencki himself, one of the best of the insurgent chiefs, was second day.

All the partial successes which are claimed for the Poles are, however, we fear, not sufficient to make their final success probable. The numerical preponderance of the Russians, is still, as it was at the outbreak of the revolution, overwhelming. The spreading of the revolution may, however, have the good effect, that it will strengthen the diplomatic intercession of other European powers in behalf of the brave Polish people.

The fight made by the Hatteras was heroic; but her defeat and loss in sight of a fleet that might have sunk the Alabama by a broadside is discreditable-not to Commander Blake nor to his crew, but to whoever is responsible for not affording him timely aid. He should not have been sent alone at nightfall to overbaul a vessel which might prove more than his match, as the Alabama actually was. Had the affair been well managed on our side, the Alabama would have been sunk, or captured, or at the worst run off, and the Hatteras saved.
